

New IEA Energy Technology Network Logo

Several thousand people around the world work within IEA collaborative energy technology programmes and associated bodies. While often located in laboratories or offices far from the IEA Secretariat in Paris, these partners and their expertise form the core of the IEA Energy Technology Network.

The IEA has recently created a special logo for these partners. It underlines their major contributions, within an IEA framework, to energy technology innovation and to policy advances for energy security, economic growth and climate protection.

This new IEA Energy Technology Network logo stands for dynamic, results-oriented international energy technology collaboration. It stands for sharing the challenges in pursuit of energy sector sustainability around the globe.