

Terms and conditions - IEA information and material except for the Policies and Measures Databases

Last amended on 11 January 2017

1. Introduction

In using the IEA website (www.iea.org), any of the IEA related websites (including wds.iea.org, mods.iea.org and data.iea.org) and any of the text, maps, multimedia, data or other content made available on or through these websites except for the various Policies and Measures Databases (together the "Information"), you acknowledge that you have fully read and understood, and agree to be bound by, these terms and conditions and the Privacy Protection Policy. Furthermore, you acknowledge and agree that the IEA has expended significant resources gathering, assembling and compiling data within the Information and producing the Information, the Information is the valuable property of the OECD/IEA or their licensors, and the OECD/IEA or their licensors retain copyright, database rights and any other applicable intellectual property rights in the Information, despite any licences granted to you under these terms and conditions.

2. Use of the Information

(a) Permitted use

Unless exclusions apply (see the Exclusions sub-section 2(f) below) or unless the Information is indicated as being licensed under a Creative Commons IGO license, the OECD/IEA grants you a non-exclusive, worldwide licence to use the Information as follows:

Internal use:

You may download and save one electronic copy of the Information and print and retain one hard copy only of the Information solely for your own analysis and evaluation purposes. You must not share, or enable others to access, any Information unless:

- the Information is Subscriber Material and specific sharing is permitted with the number of users covered by the licence (see section 3 Subscriptions below); or
- you are an official working for an IEA Member country. If so, you may access, store, download, reproduce and/or distribute the Information for your government's internal purposes only.

External use:

Subject to the Exclusions sub-section 2(f), you may reproduce Insubstantial Amounts of the Information in your own work and distribute such work to the public free of charge only, provided that:

- such reproduction is on an occasional basis;
- any reproduction of numerical data from the Information is presented either in graphical format, or aggregated, in both cases in such a manner that the reader cannot reverse engineer or extract the raw underlying numerical data;
- excerpts of non-data IEA Information, including text, graphs and/or figures, must be reproduced in their entirety without any modification to the excerpt's content; and
- you comply with the Attribution sub-section 2(b) below.

Furthermore, you are permitted to:

- publish up to 10 (ten) data points from the Information in any of your work; and

- produce and distribute, on a non-revenue generating basis, works based on or derived from no more than an Insubstantial Amount of the Information only, provided that such derived works (a) are not primarily a copy of part or all of the Information, (b) cannot be back-calculated, processed, translated, re-converted or re-engineered in any way in order to identify the underlying Information, (c) do not affect the IEA's ability to license part or all of the Information, and (d) include the disclaimer referred to in sub-section 2(b) below. To avoid doubt, you must also comply with the requirements above in respect of any direct reproduction of Insubstantial Amounts of Information in your derived works. Nothing in this section will operate so as to vest in you any proprietary rights in any Information, or in work that you produce that is derived from the Information.

"Insubstantial Amounts" means excerpts or portions of the Information that are immaterial (in terms of quantity, quality and/or significance) in the context of the Information and also in the context of your work and/or which, on their own or when compiled together, do not affect the IEA's ability to license the relevant Information and/or could not serve as a substitute for the relevant Information.

If you wish to use the Information in a way that is not permitted above (including if you want to sell the work in which IEA Information is reproduced or which is derived from the Information), please email rights@iea.org with your rights request and provide the information listed here.

(b) Attribution

If you reproduce excerpts of any Information in your work, you must attribute the OECD/IEA and/or their licensors with the following copyright notice:

- non-data Information: © OECD/IEA/[co-author(s) if any][year], [Title], IEA Publishing. Licence: www.iea.org/t&c e.g. © OECD/IEA 2015 World Energy Outlook, IEA Publishing,. Licence: www.iea.org/t&c

- numerical data presented in aggregated or graphical format: Based on IEA data from [Title of IEA database] © OECD/IEA/[co-author(s) if any][year], www.iea.org/statistics, Licence: www.iea.org/t&c; as modified by [your legal entity name].

e.g. Based on IEA data from the Monthly Oil Data Service © OECD/IEA 2015, www.iea.org/statistics. Licence: www.iea.org/t&c; as modified by Data User's Legal Entity Name.

If you produce works derived from using part of the Information, you must include the following disclaimer in your work:

- "This work is partially based on the [describe the Information data] developed by the International Energy Agency, © OECD/IEA [201X] but the resulting work has been prepared by [insert your legal entity name] and does not necessarily reflect the views of the International Energy Agency".

You must also include a similar attribution/disclaimer requirement in any licenses that you grant in relation to your work, and require that any further sub-licensees do the same.

If Information is licensed under a Creative Commons IGO license, please refer to the relevant licence which will specify different attribution requirements.

(c) Linking

You may include links to the IEA websites and to free-of-charge OECD/IEA-owned Information provided that (a) the link appears clearly with the complete IEA URL; (b) you do not create frames, or use other visual altering tools, around the IEA web pages; and (c) you email info@iea.org to notify us that you have created a link.

(d) No endorsement or affiliation

You may not use the IEA logo/emblem without the IEA's prior written consent. Furthermore, you may not use the Information, or link to the Information, in a way that suggests that the IEA approves, participates in, is connected/affiliated/associated with, sponsors, or otherwise endorses you, your entity and/or your use of the Information.

(e) Duration of licence

The licence granted under these terms and conditions lasts for the duration of the term of the copyright in the relevant licensed Information.

The IEA reserves the right at any time and without prior notice to (a) update these terms and conditions and (b) release any Information under different licence terms. By continuing to use the Information after the terms and conditions have been amended, you acknowledge, agree and accept such amendments. However, any existing licences granted to you by the OECD/IEA in respect of Information will continue in full force and effect, unless terminated for breach.

If you breach these terms and conditions, any and all licences granted to you pursuant to these terms and conditions will terminate automatically. Termination shall not affect any rights the IEA may have to seek remedies for your licence breach.

(f) Exclusions

The licence granted under these terms and conditions does not cover (a) the Policies and Measures Databases which are subject to the PAMS Terms and Conditions set out here, (b) any personal data in the Information, (c) trade marks, logos, emblems (including the IEA and OECD emblems), patents or design rights, nor (d) any Information, including any graphs or figures, identified as being owned or sourced from third parties (i.e. non-IEA Information). It is your responsibility to obtain the necessary permission to use such Information from the relevant third party copyright owner; you alone are liable for any infringement claims in relation to your use of such third party Information.

Furthermore, nothing in these terms and conditions affects any fair dealing, fair use or any other copyright or database right exceptions and limitations you may enjoy.

3. Subscriptions

In these terms and conditions, "Subscriber Material" means Information subject to charge and "Subscriber" means either (a) an individual that purchases a licence for his or her own access and use of Subscriber Material or (b) an entity that purchases a licence for its employees to access and use the Subscriber Material. In the case of non-individual Subscribers, passwords to access the Subscriber Material may only be notified to up to the number of Subscriber's employees covered by the licence (the "User(s)") and Subscriber and Users must not allow any other people to access and use the Subscriber Material, except that a:

- single-user licence also permits the Subscriber to store one hard copy only of non-data Subscriber Material in the Subscriber's library and/or circulate that hard copy amongst the Subscriber's employees;
- multi-user licence for more than 10 Users (or 50 Users in the case of the Monthly Oil Data Service or Online Data Services or more than 100 Users in the case of any edition of the World Energy Outlook and Energy Technology Perspectives) also permits the Subscriber to share such Subscriber Material in electronic format with all employees of the Subscriber's legal entity or an independent contractor who needs to access the Subscriber Material in order to perform work solely for the Subscriber. Please note that (a) a multi-user licence does not permit a Subscriber to share the Subscriber Material electronically with employees of its Affiliates (see definition below) in which case the global corporate licence referred to below shall be required, and (b) the Subscriber must purchase a multi-user licence (rather than several smaller licences) in order to reach the relevant threshold number of Users; and

- global corporate licence also permits the Subscriber to share such Subscriber Material in electronic format with employees of the Subscriber's legal entity and also employees of its Affiliates. For example, a Subscriber to a global corporate licence could post the Subscriber Material on its global/group intranet making it accessible to the Subscriber's and its Affiliates' employees. To avoid doubt, under the global corporate licence, Affiliates are also permitted to use the relevant Subscriber Material as set out in section 2 above.

A Subscriber is deemed to accept these terms and conditions, in particular sections 2 and 3 regarding permitted use and sharing, upon purchase of the relevant licence to the Subscriber Material. Non-individual Subscribers (a) must ensure that their Users comply with the terms and conditions, including section 2 'Use of the Information' and (b) are responsible for their User's/Users' authorised or unauthorised use of Information. Subscribers must notify the IEA immediately of any unauthorised use of Information and/or passwords.

The IEA reserves the right to terminate a Subscriber's (and where relevant its User's/Users') access to any Subscriber Material if it becomes aware that the Subscriber or any User(s) have committed a breach of these terms and conditions. If a subscription is terminated for breach, the Subscriber and its User(s) must cease use and/or distribution of the Subscriber Material and any material relating to the Subscriber's breach. Furthermore, the Subscriber must ensure the destruction and deletion of any copies of Subscriber Material and any material relating to the Subscriber's or its User's/Users' breach in their possession and/or control.

Subscribers have the right to cancel their subscription at any time. If a subscription expires or is cancelled other than for breach, the Subscriber's access to the Subscriber Material will be terminated but the Subscriber may retain any PDF or authorised copies of the Subscriber Material, whether electronically or in hard copy, and continue to use them in accordance with these terms and conditions. However, the IEA will not refund any pre-paid subscription fees for any remaining period of a subscription after the date of termination or cancellation.

Subscribers are responsible for the procurement, installation and maintenance of any software or equipment that enables them and their User(s) to access the Subscriber Material.

"Affiliates" means any company which is directly or indirectly affiliated with the Subscriber. A particular company is (a) directly affiliated with Subscriber if the latter holds 50% or more of the shares or similar entitlements carrying the right to vote at a general meeting (or its equivalent) of the particular company; and (b) indirectly affiliated with Subscriber if a series of companies can be specified, beginning with Subscriber and ending with the particular company, so that each company in the series, except Subscriber, is directly affiliated with one or more companies earlier in the series.

All enquiries about subscriptions should be sent to bookshop@iea.org and all media-related requests should be sent to IEAPressOffice@iea.org.

4. Confidentiality

Subscribers and their User(s) must keep confidential the Subscriber Material and must not disclose the Subscriber Material to any other person(s), except to the extent permitted under these terms and conditions or to the extent that the Subscriber Material is, or through no fault of your own becomes, generally available and known to the public.

5. Disclaimer

The IEA provides the Information (including the IEA websites) on an "as is" and "as available" basis. The IEA's goal is to keep the Information accurate and complete, but it makes no representations, guarantees or warranties (express, implied or otherwise) of any kind concerning the Information, including, without limitation, no warranties of satisfactory quality, availability, fitness for a particular purpose, accuracy, completeness, merchantability, up-to-datedness, title or against infringement of the proprietary or other rights of third parties. The IEA reserves its right to change, update or discontinue in any way part or all of the Information or change any publication or data release dates, without notice or any liability.

The Information is not intended to be and should not be relied upon by you in making (or refraining from making) any decisions. The OECD and the IEA shall not, under any circumstances, be liable to you for any loss, damage, liability or expense incurred or suffered (including all loss of profit, loss of use, loss of revenue, loss of contracts, increased costs and expenses and all special, indirect and consequential losses) which is claimed to result from access (or lack of access) to, use of, or reliance on, the Information, including without limitation, from any fault, error, omission, interruption or delay in such respect. Use of the Information is at the Subscriber's, any User's and your sole risk.

You shall indemnify and hold harmless the OECD/IEA from and against any and all loss, including loss of reputation, loss of data and loss of revenue and any other claims, actions, damages and costs occasioned to, or suffered by, the OECD/IEA resulting from your use of any Information.

Except where expressly stated, the Information does not necessarily represent the views or policies of the IEA Secretariat and/or individual IEA Member countries. The Information does not imply the expression of any opinion whatsoever on the part of the IEA Secretariat concerning the legal status of any country or of its authorities. The Information, including any data and maps included in it, is without prejudice to the status of or sovereignty over any territory, to the delimitation of international frontiers and boundaries and to the name of any territory, city or area.

The IEA may mention or refer to specific companies, certain products or information on external websites. This does not imply IEA endorsement, preference or recommendation in such respect. Reliance on this third party material is at your sole risk.

The IEA reserves the right at its sole discretion to deny any access to the IEA websites or any portion of them without notice. For site security purposes and to ensure that the IEA websites remain available to all users, we may employ software programmes to monitor network traffic to identify unauthorised attempts to upload or change Information, or otherwise cause damage and to detect other possible security breaches.

6. General

- (a) Nothing in these terms and conditions shall constitute or be considered to be a limitation upon or a waiver of the privileges and immunities that may apply to the OECD and the IEA, all of which are specifically reserved.
- (b) Failure by either you or the IEA to exercise any right or remedy under these terms and conditions does not constitute a waiver of that right or remedy.
- (c) These terms and conditions, including Sections 4 (Confidentiality), 5 (Disclaimer), 6(a), this 6(c) and 7, will survive the expiration or other termination to the fullest extent necessary for their enforcement and for the realisation of the benefit by the party in whose favour they operate.

7. Dispute resolution

If any disputes arising under these terms and conditions cannot be settled amicably, either the OECD/IEA or you/the Subscriber may, pursuant to a notice of arbitration communicated by reasonable means to the other, elect to have the dispute referred to and finally determined by arbitration. The arbitration shall be conducted in accordance with the UNCITRAL Arbitration Rules as then in force. The arbitral tribunal shall consist of a sole arbitrator and the language of the proceedings shall be English unless otherwise agreed. The place of arbitration shall be Paris. The arbitral proceedings shall be conducted remotely (e.g., via telephone conference or written submissions) whenever practicable. The parties' rights and obligations shall be governed exclusively by these terms and conditions.